Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. BEFORE CONGRESS. Business Expected to be Transacted the Present Week. Washington, December 21st.—It is unlikely that any positive legislation will be achieved in Congress this week, and the failure to take the usual holiday recess is not expected to result in any measurable advancement of public busi-

any measurable advancement of public business.

In the Senate the elections bill will probably consume the first three days of the week. The possibilities of an interruption hinges altogether upon the result of the negotiations now in progress among the Republican Senators upon the subject of the caucus financial bill. If a harmonious understanding to support this measure is reached, the elections bill may be said aside in its favor, and discussion in the Senate turn on financial matters until the day before Christmas, when it is expected a recess will be taken until Monday.

It is probable a successive adjournment for two or three days at a time will mark the course of the House during the Christmas holiday season. No business of importance is expected to be done, as so many members have left Washington for home that a quorum can hardly be secured.

Monday is District of Columbia day, and the House will probably pass upon local legislation until some measure is proposed upon which a

Brigham Young's Eldest Son Purchases

PITTSBUEG, December 21st.—A special from Lima, O., says: B. C. Faurot, a well-known banker of this city, and who is also President of the Columbus, Lima and Northwestern Railof the Columbus, Lima and Northwestern Railroad, large y interested in 'railroad enterprises in Mexico, returned home from New York this afterneon, and announces the consummation of a deal with John W. Young, eldest son of the late Brigham Young, whereby Young comes in persession of three million acres of land, which was granted to Faurot by the Mexican Government three years ago. The negotiations have been in progress for some time, and were finally clouded in New York yesterday. The land is located in the northern part of Mexico.

About three years ago Faurot obtained a valuable grant from the Mexican Government, which included these lands, the stipulation being the construction of a railroad extending from Deming, N. M., to Cashilabompa Bayo, on the Pacific coast. The Mexican Government, in connection with this grant, offers $00 to ever family and $50 to every man who locates permanently on this land.

Young has ten thousand people who will colonize on these lands, and it is understood they are all Mormons who now reside in Utah.

HIS FIRST MEAL.

Signor Succi Does Not Seem to Have Lost His Appetite. New York, December 21st.—When Signor Succi arose from his sleep to-day, after the long slumber which he fell into soon after his feat ended last night, an elaborate meal was placed before him. He ate with extraordinary relish before him. He ate with extraordinary relish chicken soup, fried smelts, fried calves' brains, quail on toast, fruit, confections, ice cream, coffee and a pint each of Barol's Extract and Grand Sec. Succi occupied two hours consuming the food. He never faltered, but ate with a zest that puzzled even George Francis Train, who was present Julian Hawthorne and poet Stephen Massett were also present when the faster dined. Soon after the conclusion of the meal Succi retired for a nap, preparatory to his trip to Boston, where he goes to exhibit at a museum.

Professor Elliott, however, puts the matter in a different light. His report, recently made public, shows that both the method of killing on our part, supplemented by the wanton destruction by poachers, is rapidly exterminating the animal. He argues that a few years hence the animal will become extinct, and he supports his argument so conclusively that I have no doubt of its correctness."

Breeding of Fast Horses.

New York, December 21st—In an interview with a Herald Washington correspondent, Senator Stanford said: "While I am best known as a breeder of light harness horses I am greatly interested in breeding the runner, as well. I have not yet fully decided what member of my stud I shall select to take the place of Election-ter. I have several good stallions of the same blood, such as Electricity, Palo Alto and Asmoor. I shall give Palo Alto a good opportunity in my stud. Electricity would, I think, have trotted very low down, but he suffered an injury to his leg, and I had to throw him out of training. I must breed on and on. No backward step must be taken, but whether in my lifetime I shall breed a horse that can trot a mile in two minutes is a problem I am not capable of solving. I am earnestly endeavoring to do so, and in so trying I shall certainly not retrograde in the science of breeding. The trip across the continent last summer did not agree with Sunol. She was more or less off all summer."

Secretary Tracy is very anxious to appoint good officers and men of undoubted integrity to the Mare Island Navy-yard. China.

UNION PACIFIC.

Rumor that George Gould Will Becom New York, December 21st.—If the rumors current at the Windsor Hotel yesterday turn out to be correct, George J. Gould is about to receive a very handsome Christmas present from his indulgent father. It is reported that the young man is to be made President of the Union Pacific Railway Company, and presented with a large block of the company's stock as well. Sidney Dillon has been President of the Union Pacific for a few weeks, but Mr. Dillon does not care for the position and only took it temporarily to oblige his friend Jay Gould. George Gould is already President of the Pacific Mail. Its President.

WOODVILLE, (Miss). December 21st.-Roadmaster Bryant, who was in the pay-train on the New Orleans and Texas road, which was wrecked last night by Doc Bradford for the purpose of robbery, is probably fatally injured, while two or three others of the crew are seriously hurt. Sheriff Lewis has placed an additional guard at the jail, as rumors are afloat that Bradford will be lynched should Bryant die. The safe contained about $40,000, Car Shops Burned.

CHICAGO, December 21st.—The paint shop and repair shop of the Illinois Central Railroad was entirely destroyed by fire to-night. In the first building there were sixteen passenger coaches, worth $3,500 apiece, and in the repair shop were four coaches, nearly completed, also valued at $3,500 apiece. The fire stopped just before the building containing over $150,000 worth of patterns was reached. The total loss is estimated at $125,0.0. Bold Train Robbery.

INDIANAPOLIS, December 21st.—An Evansville special to the Schinul says: While a special train on the Peoria, Decatur and Evansville Railroad stopped at Olney, Ill., to-day for the locomotive to take water, two masked men entered the caboose and robbed conductor Hampton and the brakeman of their watches and considerable money. The robbers causelt them of able money. The robbers caught them off their guard and covered them with their re-volvers while they effected their purpose. Death of Ward Ellis.

Death of Ward Ellis.

CHICAGO, December 21st.—Dr. J. Ward Ellis, a well-known dentist, died last night at his residence in this city after a long illness. Dr. Ellis was a thirty-third degree Mason and a member of the Knights of Pythias. In Odd Fellowship he had passed all the chairs, and his life was devoted to the best interests of that Order. Donna Juana Seguel died at Zangai, in Chile, at the advanced age of 123 years.

Reports from all parts of Chile state that small-pox is raging severely.

An important session of the Municipal Council of Carthagena was held on November 12th, when a resolution was unanimously adopted stating that the bad state of business, agriculture and cattle-raising in the Department of Bolivar, and the suffering of the working classes, was entirely consequent on the cessation of work on the Panama canal, and that as the Department of Panama suffers the same depression, even to a greater degree, it is the duty of Congress to endeavor to reach such an arrangement with the agent of the liquidator of the canal company as will enable the work to be resumed.

The Vor De Traiguen of Traiguen, in Chile, says Juan Widemar had been stopped and robbed by men belonging to the rural Constabulary on the very-outskirts of the town. Antonio Zube was stopped and robbed by Constables just outside of town. Haesch was attacked and robbed of a cartload of merchandise on the road to Nueva Imperial and narrowly escaped being shot. Heger was attacked and robbed on the Galvarino road, and finally a colonist named Reidel was attacked, but escaped with his life, thanks to the timely assistance lent him by fellow colonists, one of whom, however, a German named Kleinstuber, was shot in the leg. All these crimes, the Voz De Traiguen says, were committed by the rural Constabulary.

Hon. T. J. Armero, Minister of the United States of Colombo to Peru, died in Lima on November 11th, after a long illness. He was very popular, and his funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Lima.

As showing the effect of the general stagnation of business, the receipts of the Callao Custom-house for 1890 only amounted to $435,689. In Bolivia a Congressional Committee has been appointed to report on the resolutions passed at the International arbitration and the proposed intercontinental railroad.

BASEBALL. The All-Californias Defeat the Picked

Nine-Game at San Diego. SAN FRANCISCO, December 21st.—About 1,200 people witnessed the baseball game this afternoon at the Haight-street grounds between the All-Californias and picked nine, which was won by the former by a score of 3 to 1. It was the shortest and one of the best-contested baseball games ever seen in this city. Van Haltren and Roscoe Coughlin, the pitchers, were both in great form, each side being credited with the same number of base hits-five-and the field. ing of each team was above the average. VICTORIA NOTES. Great Amount of Damage Done by the Late Floods. VICTORIA (B. C.), December 21st. - Henry Craft Victoria (B. C.), December 21st.—Henry Craft, M. P., who was sent to Cowichan by the Government to report on the extent of the floods and damage done, returned to Victoria to day. He says the published reports were not at all exaggerated. Every bridge in the district will have to be rebuilt. The waters are now receding, and fears of further damage allayed.

An extra of the Government Gazette was issued this evening, summoning the Provincial Parliament to meet January 15th. This is a much earlier date than usual.

Fatal Accident.

ALTURAS (Modoc county), December 21st.—
Frank Mears, an old resident of this county, was found dead in the corral of Robert Wells last Monday evening. It seems that he was in the employ of Mr. Wells, and was left at the ranch to feed the stock while the family came to Alturas. When Mr. Wells returned he found Mears lying in the corral dead with a large bruise on his right arm, resembling that of the ki-k of a horse. The team that he was using in feeding the stock had run away and broken the torgue out of the wagon. The wagon was jammed against the barn and one horse in the barn and the other in the corral. It is not known exactly how Mr. Mears came by his death, but it is supposed that he either fell from the wagon or was kicked by a horse.

Twelve Prisoners Escape. OLYMPIA (Wash.), December 21st.—Twelve risoners confined in the County Jail escaped his afternoon. Jailer Headley, 74 years of age, was seized and locked in a cell. He was ascend this anermon. Jamer Headley, 44 years of age, was seized and locked in a cell. He was ascending the steps into the second story of the jail, where the prisoners are confined, and was followed by several of the prisoners, who pushed the door open, seized him by the throat and took his pistol and keys. The prisoners then had no difficulty in escaping. All the jailer remembers of the affair is that he was thrown into the cell.

Suicide of a Mexican.

Los Angeles, December 21st.—Fernando Chacon, a one-legged Mexican, committed suicide in the city prison this morning, cutting his throat from ear to ear, severing the jugular and dying in ten minutes. Chacon had been sick for some time and was brought to the station-house on Saturday afternoon for medical treatment. He had a large bowie-knife secreted about his person and cut his throat in his bunk this morning just as the prisoners were awakened for breakfast.

Estimating the aggregate value of our railways at $8,000,000,000, Dr. Lyman Abbott declares that this has been acquired by railroad kings taking as their own the public highways." Now, there doubtless have been eases where franchises, known at the time to be valuable, have been injudiciously or even corruptly parted with by the State for private gain. Jacob Sharp's Broadway horse railway was clearly enough such a case. Perhaps the elevated roads of New York city afford mother instance. Possibly the New Jersey Central and the Pennsylvania Central might be mentioned in this connection. But, in regard to the vast majority of the ordinary steam railways of the United States, the indisputable fact is that, at the ime they were chartered, the franchises were not highly valuable, if indeed they had any market value at all. In regard to many of them, the original investors were moved quite as much by public spirit as by considerations of private interest. Take the old Western Railroad, for examole, now the larger part of the Boston and Albany. To secure the capital for this road, public meetings were held, at one of which, if I rightly remember, Edward Everett presided. The citizens of Boston and of the towns along the projected route were urgently appealed to, as for the general good. Every fresh subscription was greeted with applause. On the comple-tion of the road a great banquet was given in Albany, at which Governor Seward presided and toasted the projectors of the nterprise as public benefactors. Substantially that which has been said of this case could be said of hundreds of other ndividual charters. Nor is it true that, the railroads having been thus built by general consent, and having been made private property by law, the owners and managers have used the advantage given them to bleed the public. The history of railroad rates in this country presents a wonderful record of charges reduced, and further reduced, and still again reduced, until to-day goods and passengers are carried at rates often less than the proper cost of the service, so low indeed as to be, in the broadest view, inurious to the public interest. In an address to the workingmen of Providence, in 1886. Edward Atkinson stated that in 1865 the Vanderbilt roads charged $3 45 for carrying a barrel of flour from Chicago to In 1885 the charge had been reduced to 68 cents. The profit to the railroad by the transaction was 14 cents, or less than the value of the empty barrel. A very large part of our railway mileage to-day pays no dividends on stock; much of it does not even pay interest on the bonds issued for its construction. It is doubtful whether the present value of the stock and bonds of all the roads in the

PARNELL WILL GO TO PARIS.

HARRINGTON ARRIVES IN CORK. DUBLIN, December 21st—Timothy Harrington arrived last night in Cork in company with the Mayor of that city. The Parnellites had intended to greet him when he landed from the Aurania in Queenstown, and they had organized a torchlight procession in his honor. They missed being present on the steamer's arrival, but nevertheless made a demonstration. Finally a body of anti-Parnellites charged upon the paraders and routed them, throwing their torches into the harbor. Several persons were burt.

HARRINGTON DEFENDS PARNELL Dublin, December 21st.—Harrington, at Ducenstown, said he believed if O'Brien had been home, or if Parnell had seen his way to retire in accordance with the wishes of the majority, tre present disastrous crisis would have been avoided. He supposed however

Harrington jurther said he regretted the per-sonalities in which both sides indulged. He was surprised that Parnell had descended to the use of scurrilous language and had applied offensive epithets to his late colleagues. The unfortunate split in the party, he said, had frus-trated the objects of the American mission, which it would be useless to renew at present, for while the Irishmen were in their present he or while the Irishmen were in th wildered state they would refuse to listen to the

Speaking at Cork, when the Mayor presented the address to him, Harrington contended that whether or not Parnell's action was right, those who, after re-electing him leader sought to oust him, forfeited the confidence of the Irish people.

Kilkenny, December 21st.—Parneil and Scully, Parneilite candidate for Parliament, left here at noon for Clare. They were accompanied by a long procession of ears filled with Parneilites found a meeting proceeding opposite the Catholic Chapel in support of Sir John Pope Hennessy.

When Parneil reached the crowd Father Washs, addressing Parneil, said; "These are the chapel grounds. You must not stop here."

his side to leave with him, and some few persons followed, as did Sir Thomas Esmond, who was also present.

A meeting was then organized and Parnell made an address. He said that although his party did not have all the clergy on his side, he had no harsh word for any of them. After some further remarks Parnell eoncluded his speech, and, leaving Clare, accompanied by Scully, drove six miles to John Swell's, where another meeting was held.

Parnell reminded the electors that they had to deal with English statecraft, which was watching to seize every point of vantage ground that the Hishmen surrendered. It was not for a big Board of Guardians that Ireland contended. It was a Parliament that would folly sati-fy the aspirations of the people. To achieve this the people must stand by their leader and not leave Ireland to incapable persons who were trying to step into his shoes. The men opposing him were not elected to sit in judgment upon him. Until Ireland gave him his dismissal he would regard himself as commanding officer, carrying the national banner through the ranks of the foe.

The English democracy, he declared, would support home rule, and it was only necessary to bring up to the English politicians, who would likely betray them if disappointed in setting places after the general election. Parnell was not a mere politicial leader, but rather a general of the country, leading his army to freedom. However, men might shake their heads in the family circle, this is not the time to desert him, and with him Irish independence is more valuable than Gladstone's good intentions. TRIFLING WITH THE COURTS.

It has become an abuse that should be at once abated, to use the process of the courts for the selfish ends of people who do not intend to prosecute offenders they have arrested. It is a common thing in Sacram ato, for instance, for people to be arrested on warrants sworn out in the name of "The People," charging them with obstructing the highway, disturbing the peace, battery, maintaining nuisances, deadly assault, keeping disorderly houses, frequenting places of criminal resort, and so on, through a long list of minor offenses, who are never prosecuted for them. The arrest being made, the "case" lingers a few days-without a complaint, in many cases, having been filed-and then the people's representative moves for the dismissal of the proceedings, either because the prosecuting witness refuses to appear, or because that will give us the best showing in its the party offended says he has been "satis-

Indeed, the English have taken the seal in mid-ocean to an extent that threatens the extinction of the animals. Unless we now protect the fisheries we will, in two seasons more, have none to protect. The attitude of the President is therefore in line with the thought of the American people, and if a conflict is precipitated, the country blameworthy for it will be Great Britain. WHAT IS RECIPROCITY?

In some quarters there is an evident disposition, amounting to perversity, not to understand what is meant by reciprocity, a policy which is partly recognized in that huge blunder, the tariff law of the present, but is limited by it to sugar, molasses coffee, tea and hides, and is delayed in operation until July, 1892, and is then dependent upon the judgment of the Executive. The President in his recent message has, we think, indicated his desire for a broader extension of the reciprocity policy, since he evidently realizes the truth, that a free list without reciprocity is unequal, unjust and in violation of those economic

But, freed from partisan trammels and check-reins, the statesmen of the day can explain true reciprocity if they would, and prove it to be the best of protection. It is by no means an involved question.

Let us see. The McKinley bill propose by its free list to let in certain articles free, regardless of the relations between the United States and countries producing such untaxed articles. Let us suppose the case to be that of Brazil. Herchief staples are sugar and coffee. She wants to buy locomotives, cutlery, etc., from us. We put sugar, for instance, upon the free list. Mr. Blaine comes in at this point with a proposition that Brazil shall admit free to her ports the goods that we make and that she needs, or products we produce, and which she does not, in compensation for our admission of her sugar free. That is well as far as it goes, but there is no sentiment in trade and never was, and to limit reciprocity to Brazil and other Latin American States is badly crippling the principle and is nothing short of the ab.

Nearly all countries have a protective tariff of some kind, or to some extent. It is always set up to modify the effect of the industries of one country upon another. So when we make a tariff we necessarily discriminate in favor of those things which we can produce to the best advantage. We make a low tariff; we establish a free list, and in that list we should discriminate in our own favor by placing it upon a basis of reciprocity. That is to say, for favors we grant, let us demand compensating privileges for commodities we produce to the best advantage. Thus the reciprocal policy becomes a protective policy, because we protect our export trade by a reciprocal relation with the nation which we quote the following:—

So then reciprocity means that whenever we take down the tariff wall on any produce, but which we have for export schemes at the expense of the tax-paying community; it belittles the law and brings our Courts into disrepute.

"I suppose you know me by this writing, and my circumstances and condition. Although improving, I ask of your generosity for another bottle of your Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Its laxative action is perfection itself. It has so thoroughly regulated my system that my catarth, rheumatism, constipation, and headaches are all better. I feel ashamed to ask in this way, but what shall I do? I thought I might not need any more, but I am now so anxious to keep it up; but you see how it is."

Just Like Finding It. Evidently the editor of the Modo Weekly wants to change his residence. In the last issue of his paper he says: "We announced in last week's issue tha this business was for sele, but have received no offers as yet. We learn, however, that principles which should underlie our trade relations with foreign peoples. Probably the President, were he not at the head of the party chargeable with the Mc-Kinley bill, would more frankly express himself.

ho offers as yet. We learn, however, that the temperance people are making an effort to purchase it, and we sincerely hope their effort will be successful. We have come down a little every day on the price, so $500 less than it cost us. You men that want a newspaper had better make us an offer, for it is just like finding an office."

THOUGHT DEFECTIVE

A DISCOURSE ON THE IMPORTANCE OF SELF-CONTROL.

"He That Ruleth His Spirit is Bette Than He That Taketh a City"so Saith the Bible.

Rev. W. S. Hoskinson, of the English

taketh a city."-Prov. xvi., 32. "These words," he said, "place a high estimation on ruling the spirit. Self-control has always been important. Solomon must have had such experience as is common to the rest of mortals. Matters did not always go as he wanted them; annoyances entered into his life to ruffle his life his life to ruffle his life his life to ruffle his life his life his life to ruffle his life royal blood. Then he would storm around until the keepers of the temple were made to think that time for them had come to a close. Then the King on his throne close will die." showed his weakness. We read that 'those whom the gods would destroy they first make mad? Then it is that a king is a The Boy Burglar Doesn't Appreciate His small, weak man among other small, weak men, who give way to all forms of passion. For the time he ceased to be God's annointed. The weakest servant in the kingdom, who controlled his spirit, was greater than he. His kingly power had departed.

"But the reaction was greater on the King than on anyone else. His words and deeds humiliated him. Thus it is a common experience that our conduct is often humiliating to us. It has acted like the Australian's boomerang, and has whirled back upon us with terrible force. A hasty word was spoken: a thoughtless deed was done; we have given way to passion or a rash impulse that causes us many a restless hour. A little ruling of the spirit at the proper minute would have saved us many a pang of regret. What would we not give if we could recall the imprudent

"As it goes in the world, it is usually regarded the crowning glory of a man to be a great warrior; to sit in the councils of the nation; to win the laurels of the orator or writer—and certainly these are not to be despised if honorably gotten. But it is still greater to be able to control self; to put the reins on our own passions. And the reason is easily found. The conquest of self is the greatest of all achievements. because it is a moral conquest. The victories of greatest moment are in the moral world, and not where sabers clash and carnage is rife. Some persons would put the laurels upon the brows of such men as Alexander, Peter the Great, Napoleon, Byron, Poe; but none of them were truly great conquerors, because they failed to conquer themselves,

"Then, many of the greatest achieve-ments are not matters of history. We read of the recording angel. It is to be hoped that he is very faithful in taking the record, and that he may not be influenced in making it clear much that is in making it, else much that is of great importance will be missed. Things not considered worth mentioning in the world have a high place in the kingdom of grace. The man who, on the farm, or in the shop or store or office, amid all the petty worri-ments and vexations, keeps his temper un-ruffled, is greater than the dauntless hero who leads successful campaigns against others but fails in his campaign against

"That faithful minister of the home, mother of the family, with the care of the house, who can be a Christian amid all her cares and annoyances, can be a Christian anywhere. It is here that the spirit is tried is the greatest. 'In the small affairs of life our power of self-mastery is most severely tried.' Here it is true that 'he that is faithful in that which is least is faithful in much.' It is not so hard to be great on great occasions, when the world is looking on with applause and cheer; nor is it an essy matter to play the hero in an out-of-the-way nook where no one will ever know what a hard-won bat-tle was fought. That will be a time of revelations, when the King in his beauty comes, and all his holy angels with him. Many deeds of bravery will be made known that never got into the papers nor the histories of earth. Then that which is hidden now shall be revealed. But how are we to govern the overpowering passion? There is a very plain way indicated in this book. It seems that the first thing to do is to go to God for help. We read of a man who dwelt among the tombs. He was a terror to the neighborhood. No one could tame the demoniac till Christ came. We have fierce, unruly passions that can-not be brought under subjection in any other way than by giving Him who is 'mighty to save' the rule over us. These natures must be changed and subdued, the evil must be driven out and the good let in. We must experience 'the expulsive power of a good affection.' And this work can be We have living witnesses that may be summoned. You can easily recall men who were tossed by their passions like leaves before the wind until Christ in His mercy gave them grace to overcome.
It is very different with them now. They saw their danger and heard of safety, then fled for life to the sure refuge. So conver-

'Christ is very merciful and kind to those who will put their trust in Him, but He will not do everything for them. Much discipline is necessary still; we are lifted to our feet, but then we are expected to walk. Even standing or pushing the chair walk. Even standing or pushing the chair ahead of us will be enough. We are Christ's children, but not His infants, and thus He treats us like men and women, and expects us to act accordingly. Wi power must be exercised many times, ar we must say to passions: 'Thus far shall thou go, and no further.' Then the ma who relies on God to 'help' him but doe not do anything himself, is likely sooner of later to have a disgraceful tumble. We ar called to do service in the dark, when y can have as little certainty of God's pre ence as the disciples in the little fishin smack had when the storm swept over the Sea of Galilee, and then all the power with which God has endowed us will be called into action. God will help us, but we must help ourselves. He controls those who control themselves, and will never suffer them to be tempted above that they can bear.
"Was there ever a period when there sion of the heart is the first step on the road towards self control. It is not, how-was greater need for self-control than now?

Men in every rank of life are 'losing grip
upon themselves like prancing steeds.'
Rather their prancing steeds are running away with them. Self-restraint seems to be a forgotten or worn-out virtue. The young men of our day practice but little self-restraint; they rather do, they give way to every appeal to their evil natures. The drink habit, gaming and pool table, licentiousness, are hurrying thousands away to sure moral ruin, all because they will not put the reins on wicked passions. Too often the example of old men helps them on in these wicked ways. Like father like son is the only common rule of life. Then when ruling the spirit is not practiced by the parent it is not likely to be by the child.

be by the child.

"Right here is a dangerous tendency of our times. Under a false idea of liberty men are making themselves and others are helping to make them libertines. A license is demanded which leads to the worst species of bondage—the slavery of him who has lost the power to rule his spirit. It was just this that destroyed the cities of the Plain, let the captors into the gates of Babylon, humbled proud Rome, and has lost none of its power to ruin men and nations. True glory lies not in this direc-tion. Self-restraint is the safer road, and its prompt administration cannot do any harm, and every family should be prepared to use it in case of emergency. A correspondent, writing on the subject, has this to say about sulphur and the methods of applying it:

Pardon From Prison.

Harvey Wiles, alias "Johnny Jones," the "boy barglar," who was arrested here last summer and returned to the authorities of Tulare county, where he had escaped from the county jail while awaiting trial for burglary, is out of the penitentiary, but likely to get back there. It will be remembered that he was convicted in Tulare and sentenced to two years' in the State

Last week the case was brought to the attention of Governor Waterman, and the boy was liberated and sent from the prison with a conditional pardon. In the pardon the Governor stated that it had been represented to him that the how was in resented to him that the boy was in no way vicious, and had behaved himself admirably while an inmate of the prison. The pardon further stated that the boy should be transferred to the care of the Superintendent of the Boys' and Girls' Home as guardian, and that if he were found to be worthy and honest he was to be finally set free.

A few days ago he was transferred to the latter institution, but evidently he doesn't like it. He says he would rather be in San Quentin Prison, as he "had more lib-erly over there, had beefsteak for break-fast and meat three times a day, and did not have to go to bed so early."

COMING TOURISTS.

Bostonian Produce Merchants Soon to Visit Sacramento.

Further information has been received concerning the important party to come here under the management of Raymond & Whitcomb, representing the Fruit and Produce Exchange of Boston. This party will leave Boston February 4th, and will return March 7th. The month between these dates will be principally devoted to investigating, with care, the resources of this State. The party will embrace the leading fruit and produce merchants of this State. The party will embrace the leading fruit and produce merchants of Boston.

The value of their visit it will be difficult to estimate. It is supposed that they will be officially received at various points, and they will be undoubtedly entertained by a number of commercial bodies. The trip has been planned by the Director of the Fruit and Produce Exchange of Boston.

There can be no effect without a cause; and if the people of this city reported that it was not equal to the demand upon it. This is no doubt true, nor would the plant, if fully duplicated, be capable of supplying all the water that it would be possible to waste, if the people were to redouble their efforts in that direction.

There can be no effect without a cause; and if the people of this city are disposing of so much more water than those of any other community, there should be a thorough investigation of the subject to determine just what the actual needs of the city are, and whether or not any additional Stops will be made at all the leading southern points, and the San Joaquin, Sacramento and other valleys will be inspected. Invitations have been sent to the visiting merchants by the Board of Trade of San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Jose, Sacramento and Riverside. The visitors will be in San Francisco four days, the longest stop en route.

WASTED WATER.

WHAT BECOMES OF THE ENORMOUS QUANTITY PUMPED?

vestigation-Water Running While the City is Asleep.

In a conversation with a RECORD-UNION eporter recently, the night engineer of the City Waterworks complained of the difficulty he found in keeping the tank filled. On the night in question, he said the engine and pumps had been running at almost their full capacity for several hours, and-although nine-tenths of the people were in their beds—the 2,500 gallons then being pumped per hour failed to keep up being pumped per hour failed to keep up the supply in the tank.

"There is a terrible loss or waste of water we can't find out where it is. There are at Pythian Castle last evening, and was rear of the store faces upon a narrow alley, no bursted mains, or we would soon discover them. It is a mystery to us in the Waterworks building what becomes of the water purpose enormous quantity of water purpose of the store takes water and was present the store takes upon a narrow alley, running from K to J street, between Front and Second, and it was through this alley that the burglars effected an entrance into enormous quantity of water pumped at place this evening and to-morrow evening. night when the city is asleep. The only places open are the saloons, and their pat-ions are not expected to do much waterdrinking."
Chief Engineer Judd states that there is more water pumped in this city, in pro-portion to its population, than in any city in the world, amounting during the summer months to an average of 156 gallons per day for each resident. In a recent report published in New York, according to the Commercial Advertiser, appeared a table giving in gallons and hundredths of a gallon the discharge of water per minute through various sizes of orifices at different heads. Rough calculations were also made showing the immense quantities of water which escape in the small streams sometimes allowed to run from faucets in cold weather to prevent freezing. It was also shown that a stream the size of a pin running one year with head of 150, will flow 115,632 gallons, with head of 150, will flow 115,632 gallons, at a loss, counting at the rate of ten cents per 1,000 gallons, of $11 57.

Now that the authorities of Sacramento are considering the matter of increasing the water supply of the city, would it not be well for them, before subjecting the tax-payers to the heavy expense that would be entailed by the purchase of additional costly machinery, to thoroughly investigate the subject and ascertain wherein lies the secret of the enormous waste of water throughout this community?

If a stream the size of a pin, flowing

If a stream the size of a pin, flowing under a heavy pressure, will waste 115,632 gallons of water during the year, what must be the quantity wasted through the scores of three-quarter-inch pipes that are known to be left running much of the time throughout this city? There are said to be livery stables and other establishments here that keep streams of water running the greater portion of the twenty-four hours, at all seasons of the days, and therefore a great deal of time was lost and the work retarded accordingly. The last course is nearly down, and the work will all be finished on the dam between Christmas and January 1st. The big shutter for the top of the dam, and the hydraulic cylinders which are to reice and hydraulic cylinders, which are to raise and lower it, will not be placed in position until next winter. Two of the big arches on this side of the river are finished. The power house wall is going up rapidly, and the first floor of that structure will be put down by the latter part of next month. The new quarries recently opened are furnishing some remarkably fine granite. Some of the granite slabs that are being put on the dam are monsters, and average three feet thick by ten and twelve feet long. An immense blast was set off this week, and large quantities of granite was thrown down. Several of the pieces were as large as an ordinary box-car. The blast was fired near the head-gate of the canal, in the high bank there. Only twenty-five pounds of powder was used, as it was feared some of the large rocks might fall in such a way as to damage the canal wall. No damage resulted to any-thing, and some of the finest rock ever used in the work was thrown down.

PLACER NOT IN IT. That County Not Pleased With the Citrus

According to the Placer Herald, that county is not likely to be extensively represented at the Citrus Fair to be held at Marysville. The editor of that paper has talked several growers of citrus fruits on the subject but has not found any yet who expressed an intention of making an exhibit. The opinion seems to prevail that the premium list is cotten up with a view that the list of the last of December, roses blooming in open air, humming birds and linners flitting here and there and house flies a perfect nuisance. talked several growers of citrus fruits the premium list is gotten up with a view

In this farcial satire on life at the race track, it is said Powers finds the best field for his wit and clever acting, of all his life, and that he fits into the play with a nicety unequaled in the history of the comedy-farce business of the era. The leading soubrette of the troupe is Emma Hanley, who shares the honors with Powers, while Peter Daly is said to rival the leader in the comic business of the piece. In the company are two exceedingly tall men, Hart and Shoening, and both are clever comedians. Richard Gorman is very prominent as a downeaster, and Misses Stacy, Stowe, Mortimer, Linder and Garrett have dance, musical and pose parts that are great additions to They Robbed the Till, but Took Fright and Fled Before Opening the Safe.
